

GREENFIELD NOTEBOOK

FCCPR endorses Sheila Gilmour for mayor

GREENFIELD — After considering the candidate responses and comparing them to the recently published Franklin County Continuing the Political Revolution (FCCPR) political platform, the Greenfield membership voted to endorse Precinct 6 City Councilor Sheila Gilmour for mayor.

“We were particularly struck by Councilor Gilmour’s plans for reviewing city staffing needs and her interest in working closely with the FRCOG on regional issues,” said David Cohen, FCCPR Greenfield chairman. “We also were impressed with her ideas for bringing new businesses to Greenfield, her commitment to expanding public transportation, and her approach to housing for both those who are homeless and those that are finding it difficult to find affordable and appropriate housing.”

STAFF PHOTO/DAN LITTLE

Precinct 6 Greenfield City Councilor Sheila Gilmour, who is running for mayor, has been endorsed by Greenfield’s Franklin County Continuing the Political Revolution.

“We believe that Sheila Gilmour will bring new energy and vision to Greenfield at an important time in Greenfield’s development,” stated Patti Williams, another Greenfield member of FCCPR. “I believe that she will provide the leadership needed to truly make our city welcoming to everyone regardless of racial or ethnic background, and will support affirmative action in city hiring. These are essential as Greenfield develops over these next four years.”

Greenfield FCCPR will soon be interviewing City Council and School Committee candidates interested in the FCCPR endorsement. Those endorsements will be made public as soon as all interviews have been completed and the Greenfield membership has had the opportunity to review and vote on the results of those discussions.

Task force launches social norms campaign

GREENFIELD — Mayor William Martin’s Task Force on Domestic Violence is launching a social norms campaign, which will involve a